

90 Miles Off Broadway presents scholarship awards

90 Miles Off Broadway recently presented its 2011 theatre scholarship awards to New Paltz High School students Kymberli Clark and David King. They were chosen in recognition of their participation both on stage and off in 90 Miles' theatrical productions. Clark performed on stage several times with the 90 Miles Children's Summer Theatre and has helped out with ushering and concessions at many of the adult productions. "90 Miles appreciates her cheerful assistance and willingness to lend a hand wherever needed," said Kim Lupinacci, president of 90 Miles Off Broadway.

Clark will attend SUNY Ulster this fall and plans to transfer to a four-year school to complete her degree. After College, she intends to join the Peace Corps.

King was featured in the 90 Miles production of "Cheaper by the Dozen" and has also performed in many Children's Summer Theatre productions. He remained active in theatre throughout his high school years, appearing in numerous school plays and musical productions. He will be attending Gettysburg College in Pennsylvania this fall.

"90 Miles wishes the very best to these graduating seniors as they continue their education and much success in the years ahead," said Lupinacci.
